

“I have enjoyed an excellent client/agency relationship with Nigel over the past 18 years. Nigel’s understanding of marketing communications enabled our partnership to develop effective above the line programs supported by high quality fulfilment material.

Among his many professional qualities is a unique understanding of the electronics industry - particularly power supplies – which, alongside his technical writing skills, allows him to produce outstanding collateral material.

In recent years, Nigel has developed a keen understanding of how new media works and the implications of the internet and will pass that knowledge on to those fortunate enough to work with him in the future.

I know that anyone who works alongside Nigel Frey will greatly benefit from the relationship”
